AMERICA TO HOLD
ARMY OF 509,909 MEN

Pershing Is Authorized to Enlist Troops for Occupation of Germany; Second
Reg. Division Losses 24,429

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Battle casualties of the American army in France, as shown by revised divisional records announced today by General March, totaled 240,197. These include killed in action, wounded, missing in action and prisoners. There probably will be some slight further revision as final reports are received.

The Second Regular division showed the greatest losses in the revised list with 24,429. The First division came next with 23,972. The Third Regular division was third in the list with 16,356. The 28th (Pennsylvania), Delaware, District of Columbia, Virginia and Maryland, National Guard and National Army divisions, being fourth in the list with 14,417. The 32nd (Michigan and Wisconsin) was fifth with 14,268.

SIX ARMY TO BE FORMED

General March announced that the army would not be reduced under any circumstances below the figure mentioned in the reorganization bill which failed in Congress—a total of 509,909 men. He said that the total would be maintained until some law was passed providing for a permanent force which would "permit the military necessities of the United States to be handled."

The statement was made in connection with the information that General Pershing had been authorized to resume enlistment of new troops. General March said that regular organizations in the army were to be discharged. He declared that the United States could not get along with a small army.

1,390,000 MEN IN
ACTUAL ENGAGEMENTS

American troops actually participated in engagements against the enemy numbered 1,390,000 men, General March announced, showing that 1,100,000 comprised divisional troops and divisional reinforcements, 240,000 corps and army troops and 50,000 service of supply troops.

Demobilization reports made public today by General March showed 1,361,623 officers and men discharged to date. The number of troops ordered released had reached 1,613,500. Up to March 3, departures of soldiers from France numbered 418,545, of whom 354,324 had landed in the United States up to yesterday.

Hospital records from the expeditionary forces, General March said, showed 81,231 patients on February 20, a reduction from 112,217 when the campaign was begun.

DEMILITARIZATION IS HURRIED BY CHANGES

A reduction in the number of demobilization camps from 23 to 22 was announced today, the purpose being to enable the War Department to release thousands of men who under the original plan would have been held at the ten additional camps as demobilization personnel.

Thirteen of the original thirty-three camps designated as demobilization centers will be abandoned. Three new camps, Fort Bliss, Ogilvie and D. A. Russell, have been added, bringing the total to twenty-three.

In the new list of casualties the 42d division (Rainbow) reported a total of battle casualties of 12,252; the 77th (New York Metropolitan National Army), 9423; the 26th (New England), 955; the 27th (New York), 7940; the 30th (Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina), 6893.

The battle casualty figures now announced include wounded which were not included in the tables of major casualties recently made public by the War Department.

Holland and Spain Extend Bryan Treaty

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A five-year extension of the famous Bryan arbitration treaty was signed at the state department by the Spanish ambassador and The Netherlands minister.

An interallied force has been placed at the disposal of Admiral Niblack, commanding American naval forces on the Adriatic, with instructions that he take steps necessary to prevent a repetition of the clash between Jugo-Slavs and Italians at Spalato, it was revealed in a despatch to the Italian embassy from Paris this afternoon.

MAN DEAD, WIFE WOUNDED, OVER MONEY QUARREL

Mrs. Margaret Harris lies at the Merritt Hospital today, wounded three times and in a dangerous condition, and Thomas Harris, her husband of four months, is dead, the result of a quarrel between the two over a legacy left by the woman's first husband.

Harris, after shooting his wife three times, according to the wife's story, turned his revolver on himself in their flat at 1095 Stanford avenue.

According to Mrs. Harris, her husband had attempted to force her to give up $1000, the last of her inheritance from her former husband, and which she says she was saving for her twelve-year-old son. When she refused to give up the money, she says, her husband drew a revolver, fired three bullets into her body and then shot himself through the head.

Mrs. Harris' first husband was Elmer Harris, a Tonopah mining man, and the son over whom the quarrel started. Elmer Harris, aged 12, who is now in Tonopah, after Fuller's death Mrs. Harris married Harris, four months ago, and came to Oakland, where Harris obtained work in a local shipyard. She said that since then he has been drawing steadily on her inheritance money and drinking, until the last $1000 was reached, when she refused to give this for her son.

Several days ago, according to Mrs. Harris, she left her husband, who was drinking and threatening her, and took refuge with Mrs. L. M. Harris, 1095 Stanford street. Later, she says, her husband pleaded with her to rejoin him, promising reform, and she agreed to do so. It was planned that they return to the home.

QUARREL RENEWED
OVER HER PROPERTY

Last evening, she says, Harris and she fell to quarreling over the money. Harris, she says, took the revolver, returning in a short time with the revolver, informing her that he was going to kill her. They grappled, she says, struggling for possession of the gun. Harris then fired from him and fired three shots into her body. He then shot himself.

Mrs. Harris was removed to the Merritt hospital. Harris' body is at the morgue. At the hospital it was ascertained that one bullet had lodged in the woman's chest, the most serious. In the center of the back.

LANDLADY GIVES VERSION OF TROUBLE

Mrs. Maloni, the landlady, said this morning that the shooting followed a violent quarrel between the couple earlier in the afternoon at the Brizley rooming-house, 5825 San Pablo avenue, about a block away. They had occasionally stayed there overnight. Mrs. Harris told Mrs. Maloni about this quarrel, she says, and declared that Harris had become so angry that he tore a bedspread in two. They parted, Mrs. Harris going to their apartments on Stanford street and Harris going downtown.

When he returned, she says, there was another quarrel. Following this Harris went into an adjoining room and began to load his revolver. Mrs. Harris, hearing the click of the cartridges as they were put in the chamber, she said, then confronted him and accused him of being a coward for getting the weapon. Upon this Harris is said to have turned on his wife with the weapon.

Mrs. Maloni said there had been frequent quarrels in which Mrs. Harris condemned her husband with having dissipated in drink before her marriage. Since their marriage, Mrs. Maloni says, Harris has, as far as she knows, left drink alone.

BOILERMAKERS $14,000 FUND STIRS RUMORS

E. B. Wolff, Financial Secretary of Union, Puts Assets in Deposit Box to Which Only He Has Key, Is Claim

"Insurgent" Workers Demand That Cards Be Taken From Seven Men; George Young Asserts He Was Made Goat

Steps toward starting a civil suit to restrain E. B. Wolff, financial secretary of the Oakland Boilermakers' Union, from disposing of $14,000 of the funds of the union were started today following the meeting last night of approximately 4000 men who withdrew from the organization following an effort to force them onto a walkout. Wolff is alleged to have removed the sum stated from the treasury and placed it in a safety deposit box to which he alone has a key.

This action was the result of a statement made by George Young, president of local No. 232, that he had been misled and imposed on by Wolff and his adherents. Young told the men that he "was not educated or used to handling union business and that Wolff had taken it over on him." He said that Wolff and his adherents had transferred $14,000 from the union treasury to a certain safe deposit box and that when he protested he was told that this money was "in escrow," but that Wolff refused to tell him why or by what right.

YOUNG GETS HEARING
BEFORE NEW BODY

Young's statement was made after the boilermakers had formed tentative plans for a new union, a charter for which was being sought by wire last night. A. McKendrick was elected president, and announced that Young was waiting in the afternoon and desired to present his side of the case to the former members of his union. It was voted to give him five minutes.

As the result of Young's charges against the factions in his union, a wire was sent East by vote of the members of the "insurgent" faction, demanding that the union cards of J. C. Wiener, E. B. Wolff, George Baker, Frank Macdonough, J. H. Powers, W. C. Donnelough and George Ferguson be revoked. Young told the men that he had seen a photograph of an application made by Wolff in 1913 to join the Pinkerton Detective Agency, at a time when, it is charged, he allowed his dues to lapse, thus suspending his standing as a union man.

A member of Local 232, named Skillen, was forcibly ousted from the hall during the discussion. According to the "insurgent" faction, every man returned to work during the recent shipyard troubles was fined $100. The motion was never placed on the union books by the secretary, Young charged.

McGUIRE ADVISES
AGAINST ACTION TAKEN

M. J. McGuire, of San Francisco, strike representative of the Boilermakers' International Union, advised against application for the revocation of any man's union card, the wire being sent to the international against his counsel.

Three thousand names of former members of 232 are on the charter of the new union, McGuire said. It was voted to make all its meetings open, admitting the press and holding no secret sessions.

While the boilermakers were in session, the police, it was said, assembled in the Eastbay district last night in a get-together meeting last night in the Municipal Auditorium at the call of the recently organized Metal Trades Council of Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

No attempt was made to place the council on record in favor of the 44-hour working week.

Edward Nolan, president of San Francisco Machinists' Union, then recently affiliated with the Metal Trades Council on this side of the bay, addressed the meeting and urged the men to quit work at noon today in support of the machinists and others who were discharged by the managements of the bay shipyards following their action last Saturday in taking the afternoon off. He also urged the men to vote for a coastwide strike on April 1 for a basic rate of $1 an hour for journeymen mechanics and $7 a day for helpers.

OTHERS MAKE TALKS
ALONG SAME LINES

Luke Adams was made by W. V. Angell, organizer here for the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders, and others.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be a mass meeting of the members of the unions named to hear the regular tri-weekly report on the status of the present controversy.

General Strike Declared Off When Ebert's Government Agrees to Give Recognition to Soviets of New Republic

City Streets Are Strewn With Dead and Wounded; Plane Bombs Blow Red to Pieces; Work to Be Resumed Mon.

BERLIN, March 8.—A great number of Spartacans were taken prisoner in the fighting in the center of Berlin Friday and will be sentenced to death, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen.

The fighting in Berlin ended at noon Friday. Government troops now occupy all public buildings and squares and a number of factories.

By FRANK J. TAYLOR,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, March 7, 3 p. m.—The general strike was called off by its leaders this afternoon. Work will be resumed Monday.

A settlement was reached on the basis of a compromise whereby the soviets are granted constitutional recognition.

Despite the action of the strike leaders, some fighting continued in parts of the city.

BATTLE STILL GOING ON FRIDAY EVENING.

5 p. m.—At this hour the rebels were battling desperately in the northeastern section of the city behind cobblestone barricades and walls of brick and stone.

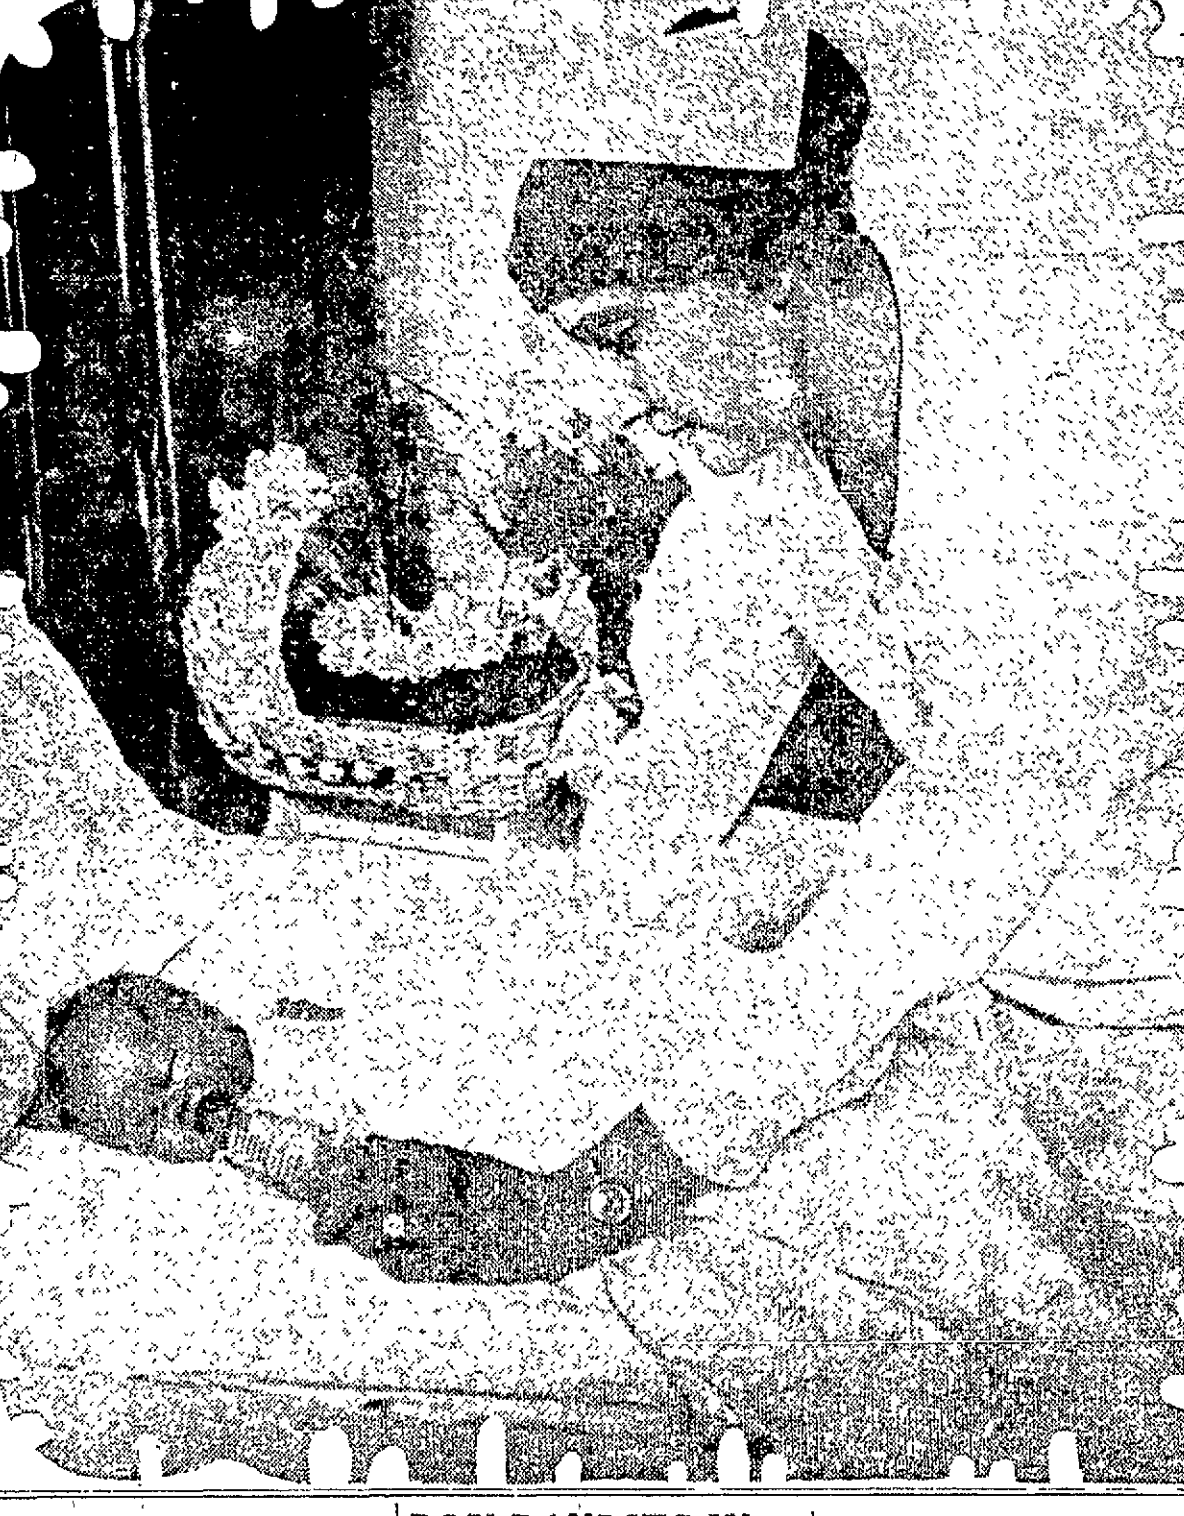

They were holding off a vastly superior government force. The Alexander Platz had been battered until it resembled a front line village. The Kaiser strasse was strewn with dead and wounded. The latter were without medical attention. It was unofficially estimated that the fighting had resulted in the killing of 300 and wounding of 600, mostly rebels.

Additional regiments have arrived from Eastern Prussia to assist in the work of mopping up. The members of the American mission were still safe in the Adlon and Palace hotels, the fighting died down in the immediate vicinity of these places.

AIRPLANES DEFEAT
SPARTACAN FORCES.

After a day of comparative success the revolutionists were again on the defense last night and the battle turned into a guerrilla warfare. The tide turned when government airplanes began dropping huge bombs on the roof of the royal stables, occupied by revolting sailors. The buildings were practically demolished and scores of sailors killed or wounded. The remainder surrendered. Shortly afterward the Alexander Platz, which had changed hands several times and where the Spartacans had their headquarters, was taken by storm by government troops. More than a hundred revolutionists were captured here.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Claims filed by American citizens and concerns with the State Department against Germany and Austria-Hungary total about $750,000,000, the State Department announced today. Additional claims are expected.

The claims, which will run into the thousands, are divided into two classes, those arising from submarine atrocities and those due to other acts of the Central Empires. The State Department for several months has had a large force engaged in compiling the items comprising the claims growing out of submarine warfare are losses alleged for death and injury of American citizens, losses suffered in the destruction of American vessels, losses suffered in connection with American cargoes, both in American and foreign bottoms; and the loss of much valuable personal property other than cargoes.

HEAVY LOSSES MET IN ENEMY COUNTRIES

Losses due to other acts of Germany and Austria-Hungary include destruction and requisition of American properties both in enemy territory and territory occupied by enemy forces.

The State Department's statistics show that American citizens at the outbreak of the war had about $200,000,000 worth of property in enemy countries and in those which have been under enemy occupation. Heavy losses have resulted in connection with this property.

PARIS, March 8.—A preliminary conference with the German delegates will be held in Versailles before the end of the month.

The general conference will take up ratification of the preliminary peace terms on March 15. The newspaper forecast that the German plenipotentiaries will be called in for an informal conference about March 30, after which the plenipotentiaries will be held.

The allied powers have agreed to distribute the surrendered German war fleet among themselves. It was understood here today that the line with the exception of both France and Italy. At the same time the United States and Great Britain are said to be in accord on the necessity of sinking the ships that fall to the victors.

The supreme interallied war council met today. Before the session opened it was regarded as probable that it would adopt Premier Lloyd George's motion proposing the limitation of Germany's army to 200,000 men, made up entirely of volunteers.

LENINE AGENT FOR GERMANY, STATES FRANCIS

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASSED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Ambassador Francis, recently returned from Russia, testified before the Senate propaganda committee today that he was informed that Raymond Robins, former head of the American Red Cross mission in Russia, had returned to the United States as a courier of the Bolshevik government with a proposal for President Wilson.

From a source which he regarded as reliable, Francis said, he had heard that Robins brought documents in which the Bolshevik leaders offered, under certain conditions, to make concessions to the United States similar to those given Germany by the Brest-Litovsk treaty.

Francis, who went to Russia in March, 1916, told of his experiences there.

He said that he found the Germans so strongly entrenched in Russia that they could not be dislodged by force. Even the Russian industry.

LENINE AN AGENT OF GERMANY.

Francis said he had not the slightest doubt that Lenin was from the very beginning an agent of the German government.

"The Germans never would have permitted him to come through Germany had they not known he would be useful to them," the ambassador declared. "Moreover, Lenin disbursed large amounts of money. I believe, however, that he was even more concerned about starting a world-wide revolution than he was about furthering the interests of Germany. He later not only permitted but encouraged the reign of terror which still prevails in Russia."

Francis said he believed Kerensky made his big mistake when he failed to arrest and try for treason both Lenin and Trotsky when the first appeared as factors in the political situation. He said Lenin actually was the brains of the Bolshevik movement, that he was a fanatic, but at the same time held some sincere ideas. Trotsky was described as being purely an adventurer, who was dominated by Lenin. Both, he said, were usurpers and did not represent ten per cent of the Russian people.

KERENSKY STOOD FOR LAW AND ORDER

The Kerensky government, the ambassador asserted in response to questions by Senator King, really stood for law and order and did its best to set up a stable, democratic government. All during the Kerensky regime, Francis said, the Bolsheviks were trying to undermine the government, and they were given considerable assistance by monarchist advocates and the Black Hundreds. These sympathizers, with the monarchist idea, though the Bolsheviks would only last a short time, and then the entire revolution could be overthrown in favor of a monarchy.

BOY BANDITS IN REVOLVER DUEL WITH CROWD

MARTIN'S FEATURY, O. March 8.—Two boy bandits entered the Union Savings Bank at Yorkville, near here, early today, held up the cashier and his assistant, started to rifle the vault and then fought a revolver duel with a crowd outside when they attempted to escape. The boys were captured before anyone was hurt. One of the boys was Daniel Schano, 17. The other, of about the same age, refused to divulge his name.

SCORE KILLED IN CANADIAN ARMY RIOT IN WALES

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASSED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LONDON, March 8.—Official investigation was being made today of the riot of Canadian soldiers at Rhyl, Wales, in which from five to twenty-seven were killed and twenty to seventy-three were wounded. The disturbances began Tuesday night and continued through Thursday night.

Several of the 25,000 soldiers awaiting transportation home at Rhyl decided to hold a demonstration to air their grievances over delayed demobilization and non-receipt of back pay. The outbreak is said to have started at a shouted signal, "Come on Bolsheviks!"

The rioters seized stores, fired on the officers' quarters and soon gained control of the camp. They also raided the barracks of the women's auxiliary corps and looted it of clothes. The riot was broken up by the arrival of the Victoria Cross, who had won the Victoria Cross, who had been trampled to death in an attempt to defend the officers' quarters.

Cavalry was called to the camp Wednesday, but did not use arms. That afternoon a large number of the rioters started to march to Abercrombie, three miles southwest of Rhyl, were cut off and turned back by troops from Chester. The disturbances apparently were suppressed Thursday, but the rioting was renewed that night.

Friday morning a major-general, who arrived at the camp from the war office in an airplane, addressed the men and assured them their grievances would be adjusted immediately. He promised they would be demobilized at the rate of 10,000 a week and said the next four transports would be placed at their disposal.

The soldiers returned to their quarters and no further trouble had been reported today. Twenty of the rioters, alleged to be of foreign extraction, are said to be under arrest. Owing to the lack of official information no definite report has been received of the casualties. One report said twelve officers had been killed. The damage was estimated at $250,000.

Maniac's Acts Cause Sister To Go Insane

LOS ANGELES, March 8.—Insane from constant brooding over the death of his wife, Dennis C. Travers, shipbuilder, attacked his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ella Nesmith, 62, with a butcher knife early today, possibly fatally wounding her.

When she was unconscious he hurled her body from the door of the house and defied anyone to give her help.

While he was barricaded in his home his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Dugan, became suddenly insane. Running to the home of neighbors she threatened them with violence and three men had a hard struggle before overpowering her.

Joseph S. Burpee Is Sued for Divorce

Joseph S. Burpee, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, and manager of the West Oakland branch, was made defendant in a suit for divorce filed today by Mrs. Edith M. Burpee. The complaint is sealed and the parties refuse to discuss the nature of their domestic troubles. Attorney Charles E. Snook, representing the plaintiff, stated that the grounds were extremely cruelty, without any sensational accusations. It is said that Mrs. Burpee complains of a course of conduct on the part of her husband toward her that caused her mental anguish. There is said to have been no property settlement between them. The Burpee home is at 224 Grand avenue.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Labor disturbances that threaten to close all of the shipyards in the San Francisco bay district were discussed here today at a conference of representatives of the California Metal Trades Association, the organization of employers, and the San Francisco Iron Trades Council. Different plans were discussed. It was said, that would force all unions of the council to abide by any agreements entered into with the employers.

Before the conference a representative of the association said the employers believed that any agreement made with ship workers should be through the council, rather than the international officers of the separate unions. That the employers also will seek to arrange a binding agreement with a responsible labor organization also was intimated.

SATURDAY, MARCH 8, 1919.

THE SHIPBUILDING POLICY

Mr. Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, gave out on March 1 a statement showing what the board had accomplished, what it is now engaged on and a resume of the policy it prefers to follow regarding shipbuilding. He recalled that the peak of production was reached in September of last year, when the shipping board felt that it was able to furnish necessary ships in defiance of the highest power of enemy submarine destruction. Thereupon, in view of the progress of the steel ship program, it was decided to revise the building schedule. The wooden ship program was sharply reduced. A number of contracts for steel ships were cancelled, including those scheduled to be built at the Liberty shipyards in Alameda, which involved about $80,000,000 for yard and ships.

When the armistice was signed the shipping board again went over the program and decided upon a further restriction of building activities. Prior to January 1, 1919, contracts for 107 ships (55 steel, 22 wood, and 20 concrete) had been suspended or cancelled. On a round estimate, up to February 15, 1919, there had been cancellations or suspension orders with reference to about 550 or more vessels of about 2,700,000 dead weight tons, of which the majority were steel cargo ships. The total aggregate contract prices of the vessels, contracts for which were so cancelled or suspended, were over $400,000,000.

Mr. Hurley called attention to the fact that the world's tonnage, including the tonnage already delivered by the fleet corporation, is, according to best advices, today 9,750,000 dead weight tons short of the supply of 1914. There is a tonnage of about 10,000,000 dead weight tons now under construction by us. There are said to be about 5,000,000 tons under construction in foreign yards. The surplus to be expected in 1921, therefore, over the world's 1914 tonnage hardly seems to allow for more than what may be a normal expansion of overseas trade and a growth in our foreign business. Such increase in the world's tonnage in 1921 over that of 1914 would be an increase of about 10 per cent. The rule which has guided the shipping board has been to determine whether financially the country would be better off to finish the vessels provided for in each contract or to cancel the contract and pay the damage.

As to the program as it now stands, Mr. Hurley says:

"We have taken advice of the best shipping experts in the country as to modification or revision of our program. As a result of this careful study and an endeavor on our part to do the thing which is financially best for the country, we have reached what we believe, in the exercise of our judgment, is the limit of cancellations on a large scale. It is our judgment that to make other and further drastic cancellations may enhance our cost, rather than diminish it. There would come a time in this program of cancellations where the just claims for damage on the part of the contractors would largely exceed the cost of completing the vessels they have engaged to build."

The situation today is obviously about as follows: Additional curtailment of the building program depends on the economy of cancelling existing contracts. Wherever it will save the government money to cancel the contracts cancellation will follow. If it promises to be more economical to let the contractor finish his job than to pay claims on account of forced abandonment he will be permitted to finish his contract.

It follows therefore that the question of whether shipyards will continue on government work is largely to be determined by local conditions. If failure on the part of the contractor, for any cause, gives the government an opportunity to withdraw the work and thus save the government money this course will be followed. The government has taken the view that it does not urgently need all the ships under contract and building and if it can economically avoid taking them it will do so.

It can easily be seen that the Sinn Fein tendency to Gaelicize will lead to difficulties. John O'Kelley, the Sinn Fein delegate to the Paris peace conference, now writes his name "Sean O'Cealligh." With the Murphys becoming Pmearphigh and the Sullivans—but spare us the thought.

THE CASE OF ANSELL

Brigadier S. T. Ansell, U. S. Army, who was for several months of the period of hostilities acting judge advocate general of the army, has been demoted by Secretary of War Baker. He has been reduced to the grade of lieutenant-colonel.

General Ansell has performed several conspicuous acts during his tour of duty in the office of the judge advocate general. It was shown by testimony given at the hearing of the Senate committee investigating courts-martial cases that he insisted upon a closer supervision over courts-martial upon the part of the War Department.

He did this formally, in a memorandum addressed to the secretary of war in November, 1917; in another memorandum addressed to the same official in December, 1917; in another one addressed to the judge advocate general in the same month. Between January and the middle of April, 1918, he addressed to the judge advocate general of the army other memoranda still insisting upon the necessity for closer supervision of the administration of military justice. Some of his protests were made after he had been relieved from duties in connection with the administration of military justice because of his insistence upon reform.

But this officer of distinguished ability and moral courage did not stop. He went to Europe, under orders, and for four months studied the systems of military justice in vogue among our allies. He returned in July, 1918, and submitted an additional memorandum in which he pointed out with emphasis wherein the American courts-martial system was inferior to the European systems in the dispensing of justice to accused soldiers.

Representative Johnson of South Dakota in a speech in the House on February 27 truthfully said that this officer, who has insisted at all times upon a closer departmental supervision with a view to liberalizing courts-martial procedure, has not only never been given a hearing by the secretary of war since the question was first agitated, but that he has been on the other hand, reproved, ignored and elbowed aside.

In some of his memoranda, General Ansell said that the views of high officials of the general staff of the army savored of professional absolutism; that it is as regrettable as it is obvious that "those who oppose my views do not vision in the administration of military justice what the new army of America will require, nor do they even see what the present is revealing. They are looking backward and taking counsel of a reactionary past whose guidance will prove harmful if not fatal."

Now Secretary Baker publicly states that the demotion of Brigadier General Ansell has no relation whatsoever to the controversy of which he has been the central figure. Probably Mr. Baker did not expect the public to take this statement as a serious attempt at the truth.

There is no wish to create a definite conclusion that General Ansell is absolutely right in all the contentions he has made, and that Judge Advocate General Crowder, Secretary Baker and other officers of the general staff are utterly wrong. There is a conflict of two ideas, each of great intrinsic value in the administration of a military force. General Ansell seems obsessed with the idea that the dispensation of justice is the first and most important consideration of courts-martial in time of war. This is not the case. The supreme consideration is victory over the enemy. Discipline is necessary to achieve victory. If the extreme penalty for offenses against discipline are necessary they should be imposed. The result will naturally show many inconsistencies when tested by the rules and practices of civil procedure. General Ansell's opponents argue for the idea of victory to rule government courts-martial in war time.

But there can be no doubt that the present system and practices of the army courts-martial can be vastly improved; they can be made to serve the prime consideration of victory and at the same time entail a minimum of injustice and perversion of justice. General Ansell wants more power for the judge advocate general's office. He wants that office to have the authority to revise substantially courts-martial sentences with a view to making them conform with the judge advocate's general's idea of justice.

The field officers naturally and with good reason oppose the change. It would seriously interfere with their power to enforce that discipline over a field force essential to victory. But when a war military organization absorbs a quarter million civilians without previous military or legal experience and makes them officers with the prospect of being endowed with the power of life and death over men under their command, General Ansell's view is not without value.

Obviously it is desirable to effect a compromise between the two opposing views. General Ansell ought not be disciplined for presenting his view. He is needed at Washington in connection with the reconciliation of the two ideas which Congress will demand. Only at long intervals does an officer appear with sufficient courage to stand against the fossilized but smothering system of red tape and precedence that governs the army administration. The country will not be pleased at efforts to silence him.

NOTES and COMMENT

Some of those who are always at it have had a bill introduced that would make it a misdemeanor to play whist for cut-glass prizes, poker, pinocle or cribbage for cigars, or golf for golf balls. This effort to eliminate our sins by statute seems to be gaining force.

Just as might have been expected, the educative functionary who said that the teaching of algebra in the public schools is foolish got a rise out of some who had evidently gone through the experience and didn't see why those in line should be let off. This idea would have been a better chance if it had been advanced a couple of generations ago, before so many now living went through the ordeal.

Illustrative of how alterations and tragedies grow out of trifles is the predicament that Archer of Yolo county finds himself in for murdering Jones. They quarreled over pigs. Pork is high, but it has not yet reached the altitude where such an outcome over it offsets a ball requirement of $100,000, which the survivor has had to put up.

His friends will say it is a manifestation of Christian spirit for California's scoffing, but his critics may hold that it is an effort to get even—Henry Ford starting a factory here from which will be put forth automobiles as low as $250.

The trend of American sentiment is shown in the legislative memorial that is to be forwarded to Congress to deport all we fail to complete their naturalization within a reasonable time. The idea has gained great momentum through the war that persons who do not intend to become American citizens are not desired here.

At a luncheon the governor and lieutenant governor declared this session of the legislature to be the most business-like of any that has performed in twenty years. Which is a very early estimate. After the legislature shall have adjourned sine die and its achievements have been summed up, judgment by the people of the state of California is likely to come nearer the mark.

A great deal of advice has been lavished on original purchasers of Liberty bonds not to sell below par. But here is the county publicly offering $140,000 for $5. The county stands to lose $7000 in this patriotic investment, supposing it is able to sell out at this figure. So far, however, it has been able to negotiate but $50,000, which suggests that those hunting snags are able to do better even than that.

Raymond Robins sounds an alarm as to Bolshevism. He says it is a devil machine perhaps it isn't, as he says that still, we watch all the rattlesnakes that we come across, though we are not moved to such action through fear that they will so overrun the earth as to make it an exclusive rattlesnake habitation.

A Sacramento despatch is to the effect that the market fishermen are out against the market system. It may not be easy to form an opinion here. The general public can have no first-hand information on the subject, but it is a fact pretty well realized that the market regulation so far has not operated to the distinct advantage of consumers, while the fishermen complain that it has well nigh put them out of business.

It is a relief that will be appreciated that something has been decided about the surrender of German war vessels. A great deal has been said about sinking them in a deep part of the ocean, but that never did seem reasonable. That they are to serve other countries, and will thus be reminders to the Hun, is the wisest disposition that could be made.

Coxey again. He threatens to organize another "army." He can lay claim to being the original Bolshevist, though an innocuous type. He may realize with a certain kind of pride how his idea has grown in twenty-five years.

The difference is noticeable. Of four Roosevelt sons who went into other countries' war to make the world safe one was killed and two wounded; while of the six Hohenzollern sons whose family dynasty to the end of the world has been of interest should have been overpowered, not to mention their country's direct interest, not one received a scratch.

The postmaster says "Calif. and that may be accepted as ending the discussion. Ours not to reason why it shouldn't be "Calif." or "Calif." But each is still entitled to his opinion.

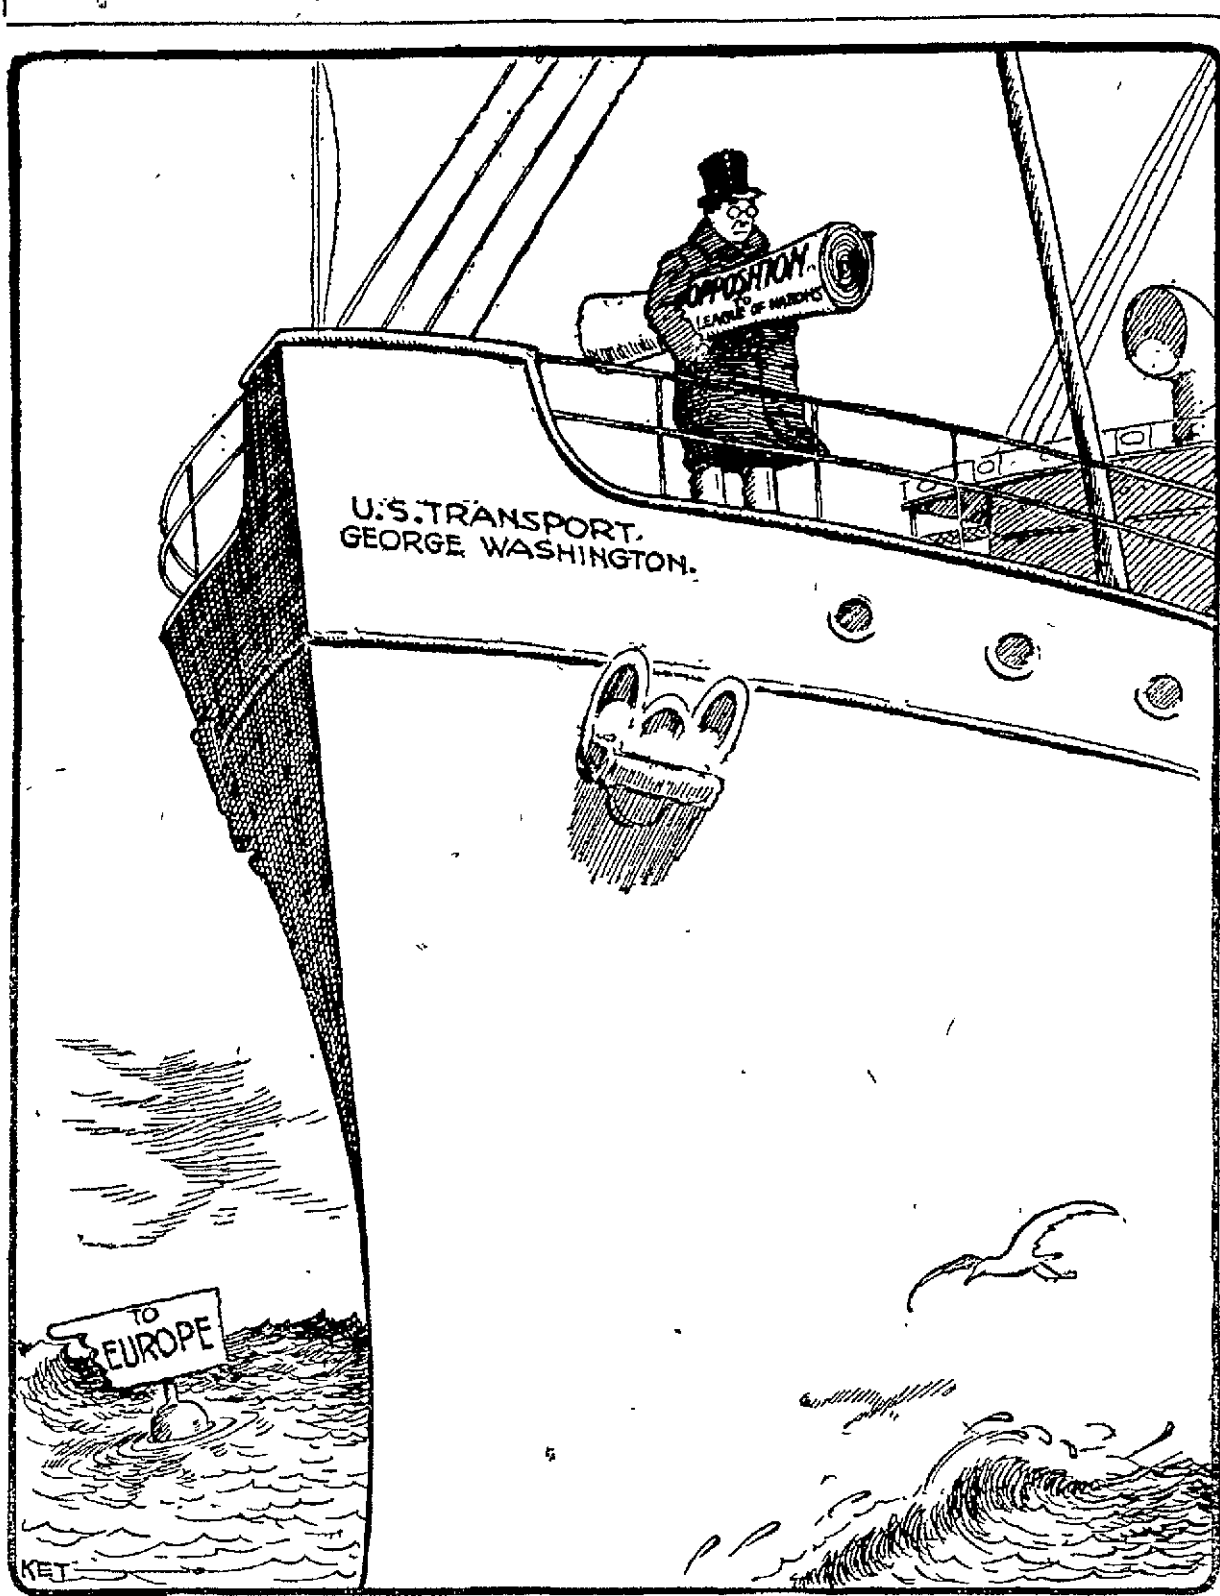

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS.

Bad temper and bad language are not ideal equipments for statesmen, but they are evidently the forces by which America has been ruled in these critical last two days. And the fault is not all in the Senate. President Wilson has his share of it, too. If he was correctly quoted by Senator Sherman as describing the heads of those Senators opposed to him as "more knots to keep their bodies from unraveling," he was not using the most effective method of securing cooperation from a coordinate department of government.

Statistics show that one person in each 100 at Los Angeles was divorced last year. Before very long we expect to see the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce advertising Los Angeles all over the East as the "divorce's paradise." Trying to grab the business away from defenseless little Reno, as it were.

All the world will regret the untimely death of Charles E. Van Loan, humorist, and writer of stories with sports as their basis. Few men have given their readers greater pleasure, and few writers have presented to the public cleaner and more wholesome stories.—Bakersfield Californian.

THE UNINVITED PASSENGER

DALMATIA--Where Rival Claims Meet

"Small wonder that Dalmatia should form one of the most sharply contested regions in the rival Italian and Jugoslav claims, for this strip of seacoast land, for eight centuries has been swept by continuous racial tempests," says a bulletin just issued by the National Geographic society from its Washington headquarters. "With an area about equal to Connecticut, Dalmatia is so elongated that nowhere is it more than thirty-five miles wide, and it tapers down to but a mile at Cattaro.

"With a climate of extreme temperatures, hot and dry when the scorching hot southern winds sweep over it, cold and wet when the dread bora, or 'wind of the dead' comes from the sea, and terrorizes mariners along its shores, peasants find life a struggle. The land is not fertile, much of it is not arable at all, and a common rural picture is that of men and women cultivating grapes and figs and olives on terraces on the sides of the frequent hills.

"Perhaps that is why these women, so far as their work is concerned, are sturdy and docile and willingly take themselves as burden-bearers and tillers. They are primitive enough to find relaxation in festivals, weddings, funerals and fetes, and at such times they form the picturesque groups Dalmatian travelers tell about, with bright colored costumes, headpieces decorated with coins, and dresses bedecked with jewels.

"The Croats and Serbians constitute the Slav element in Dalmatia. They speak the same language, but employ two alphabets. The Serbs use the Russian and the Croats the Latin letters and alphabet.

"In the cities the Latin influence is more prevalent. The reason therefore is the story of Dalmatia. "In the middle ages the Dalmatians were a people without the consciousness of a country. During the Slav influx into Illyria the invaders encountered little opposition, even in Dalmatia, except in the seaport towns. The Latin element in the cities resisted the invasions and thus engendered the strife for supremacy which persists to this day.

"Much of the early rivalry was economic. Tradesmen and farmers naturally wished to exchange their goods with the Hungarians. The maritime cities preferred to do business with Venice, which controlled the Adriatic.

"The strong Dalmatia did not develop the national feeling of her Balkan neighbors, because of her unlinked population, she made rapid strides in science and literature. But the story of her culture is one of personal achievement, rather than public advancement. Thus it came about that this early seat of Balkan culture had no printing press in its largest city, Zara, until 1795; and, in the eighteenth century, Venetian Dalmatia had only one public school.

"One famous son of Dalmatia was Roger Joseph Bosovich, esteemed by scientists for his work setting forth a new atomic theory, but more popularly known because of the reputation of his poem for assuring the upright citizens of the dome of St. Peter's at Rome when a crack was discovered in it. He taught, experimented, wrote numerous treatises, went on a diplomatic mission to England when the neutrality of his native city, Ragusa, was questioned, and wrote verse as voluminously, but not so successfully, as he wrote scientific works. Upon one occasion he penned 5000 Latin lines to set forth the fundamentals of astronomy, with copious footnotes, which scientists asserted were not his, and which the public he apparently did not find readable. "Marco Antonio de Dominis mingled theology and natural philosophy with serious consequences to himself. He set forth the first correct explanation of the rainbow. But his theological career was less fruitful. As Archbishop of Spalato, he at-

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

Exercise the Best "Cure" for Bad Posture Habits.

BY DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D.
(Johns Hopkins University.)

Are you one of those who eagerly strive to improve your posture? The best way to prevent a bad posture is to begin about thirteen generations back. For a man's posture is a symptom of inheritance, instinct and habit. Nevertheless, a bad posture is "curable" before it becomes "awkward," and it is not "prevalent" after it has become "established."

Unhappily, many unconscious instructors in the graceful art of posture are anything but graceful. At the slightest sign of a slovenly droop in a father or mother, the mimicry of childhood threatens a dangerous source of imitation.

Fatigue and weakness are no excuse for a sloppy posture. Relief from pain or tired feelings is to be sought in bed or in a comfortable chair, not in forced movements, flat feet and stilted posture. Sleep, rest, sunlight, a wide variety of simple foods, fresh air and a comfortable chair are all means to aid the grace, poise and figure of a man or woman.

One of the first essentials in the treatment of a bad physical attitude is to see yourself in the midst of multiple mirrors.

To see yourself as others see you, to view yourself from all sides with a fierce critic to point out and to emphasize your ungainly anatomy, goes a long way toward helping you.

Tracings made with soap on the mirror properly exaggerate the sway-back, the humps, the raised hip, the various irregularities of spine, shoulders, neck, head and trunk.

Shoulder braces, hand ball, squash, basket ball, medicine ball and tennis have a tendency to force bent shoulders back into a symmetrical position.

The bones and joints are to be strengthened by lime, phosphates, pure cod liver oil, whole wheat as a cereal or bread, and fresh cow's milk three times a day.

"Bending the crab" or other contortions of the vertebra and muscles ought to be gently and gradually practiced by awkward, ungainly persons.

It is a curious observation of our human vanity that we may be so conceited and as vain, as self-conscious and as egotistical as an actor yet we cannot see a faulty posture or foolish attitude in our own anatomy make-up. It is hard either to convince ourselves, or if convinced, to change a bad posture.

Stretch your arms high over your head. Clasp your extended fingers between each other. Swing them far backward, outstretch and down. Twist them and your shoulders backward as you do so.

Bend your knees forward, your spine and torso in convex curve. Then walk a few steps in this odd position with the abdomen bulged forward.

Place a stool or a chair without a back, free from other furniture, in the middle of the room. Lie across this with your arms and legs unhindered. Make breast strokes as if you were swimming.

Various other floating and swimming maneuvers made in this manner will go far toward the production of a graceful posture.

DIVORCED WIFE IS DEFIED BY SUCCESSOR

"I hope you're satisfied, now that you have sent the father of your son to jail."

Trembling with anger and resentment, Mrs. William H. Grist, 1829 Telegraph avenue, shouted the denunciation across the courtroom of Superior Judge T. W. Harris at Mrs. Della M. Grist, her husband's first wife, plaintiff in an action to recover $1300 back alimony. The judge had made an order yesterday requiring Grist to the county jail until he should make good the payment, on a technical charge of contempt of court, and this was the cause of the outburst.

Grist pleaded in reply to the citation that he was unable to support his wife and family and pay alimony to his former wife. Judge Harris told him that he should have had the alimony order in mind when he contracted the obligation to his second wife and said there was nothing for the court to do but order him to jail until he pays up.

As the order was made Mrs. Grist No. 2 arose and pointed a trembling finger cried out her denunciation. The bailiff rapped for order and Mrs. Grist resumed her seat, but took what satisfaction she could from the glance of defiance she shot across the room. Grist said he would go to jail and the bailiff took him away. As he left the room his wife burst into tears, while wife No. 1 sat unmoved, her lips curled with a sort of satisfied disdain.

The contempt order issued because Grist refused to pay over $51 which he admitted he had. The first wife and her son, Russell, age 17, testified that Grist had assumed most of what he possessed to relatives in order to defeat the alimony payment.

The divorce between Grist and his first wife occurred in 1912, at which time he was ordered to pay $50 a month alimony. A year later, when the divorce was made final, he married again, and since that time has been maintaining the two families. His children were born to the second marriage and his son by the first wife grew up, he applied for a reduction of the alimony, which was cut to $25 a month. Recently he refused longer to pay this amount.

GROUND FLOOR IS ISSUE IN PERMIT

When is a ground floor a part of a building?
When is it not a part?

H. L. Hagan, city attorney, doesn't know, except that he hazards a guess that when a building is blown off its ground floor by dynamite the second of the questions might be answered with some degree of definition.

J. A. Lloyd, building inspector, says the ground floor is an immovable part of a structure. Roscoe Jones, of the Civil Service board, says it is not.

Jones wants a permit to store gasoline in an apartment house at Eighth and Clay streets, and Lloyd has refused the permit, on the ground that it is against the law to store gasoline in an apartment. Jones has appealed to Hagan on the ground that the ground floor is not technically a part of an apartment.

Hagan says he doesn't know anything about apartments, and Jones has appealed to Chief of Police Nedderman and Fire Chief Elliott Whitehead for their ideas.

I NEED KALE, ALYCE BROWN SAID IN LETTER

Oakland has left a taste as of worm-wood in the mouth of Mrs. Alyce Brown, one of the defendants in the National Defense League fraud prosecution. She admitted herself in letters written to John Suits, an associate who has pleaded guilty to charges for which she is being tried. The letters are a portion of the record of the trial in the Federal Court in San Francisco, where they were submitted by United States Attorney Annette A. Adams.

"I have observed your request about taking notes and destroying all communications—you are right. I found it very distressing in that Oakland affair," reads one of the letters, and, further on:

"I've got to rustle, for there are so many things coming off and the town will be milked dry. I stand fine with these people now, but if McGinnity ever got wise to me he would take delight in running any proposition I was connected with. He was back of that unfortunate thing in Oakland."

"McGinnity" is E. C. McGinnity, secretary of the charities endorsement committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. He was largely responsible for the institution of the federal steps against the National Defense League.

University Maids Threaten to Quit the Show When 'Kiss Chorus' Partners Fail to Show

Rebellion threatens in the ranks of the co-eds at the University of California. One dozen of the prettiest tults on the campus have indignantly tulted their chums and have snapped shut their ruby-red lips and turned their backs on the male speakers.

"Just cause they declare they have for their indignation. For their losses have been spurned. Their smiling lips have been ignored and by blame college youths at that."

It so happens that as one of the features of the Treble Clef's annual operation, "The Clothes Line," to be staged Thursday at the Oakland Auditorium theater, a "kiss chorus" was planned.

College maids to the number of 12 responded shyly to the call for volunteers. But as for the men, many a one had his appearance for the first rehearsal of the operetta feature of the college play. Subsequent rehearsals proved a repudiation of the sad fact, and the co-ed heads assumed an upward tilt which has been growing in proportions until the climax has come in a threatened "walk-out" from the play.

SOME DRINK HARDER WHILE WHISKY LASTS

Is the approach of prohibition speeding up drunkenness in Oakland? Are devotees of the flowing bowl determined to expiate in Lucullan revels the offense that prohibitionists have offered to Bacchus by declaring his temples shall soon be closed?

These are questions Oakland police are asking. Within the past week there has been a striking increase in the number of arrests for drunkenness. This morning's police blotter was more than half-filled with the names of persons who had been arrested in various parts of the city during the night for drunkenness. In Judge Samuels' court this morning thirty-five charges of drunkenness appeared on the calendar.

"Looks like some folks are determined to make the best of a good thing while it lasts," remarked a veteran policeman.

"There is much that I would like to see you about that I dislike writing. How soon do you think of coming down, and while here lay low and don't be identified with it."

John H. Suits, local publisher, who pleaded guilty at the beginning of the trial, had judgment in his case continued for one week at the request of United States Attorney Annette A. Adams. This morning, after requesting Judge Dooling to continue the matter until the completion of the present trial, the government is expected to finish its case Monday, and the defense say it will take four days to put in their defense.

REFORM NOW PROMISED AT GIRLS' SCHOOL

SACRAMENTO, March 8.—Governor William D. Stephens issued a statement in which he sustained the report of the State Board of Charities and Corrections on conditions at the California School for Girls at Ventura, made following charges that the inmates had been subjected to "cruel and unusual punishment."

"I believe the members of the State Board of Charities and Corrections determined to cause to be done only that which will be for the best interests of the state and for all the girls detained in the school," Governor Stephens said.

"I have confidence in their judgment and believe their report, made after careful, judicial and sympathetic study. I also have the highest confidence in the individual trustees of the school, and have renewed their assurance that they will proceed, as rapidly as possible, to put into operation the recommendations of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, and make the changes of policy proposed."

"The trustees of the girls' school will be expected to fulfill their promises by August 1, at which time the state board is asked to make another investigation and report results."

COAST TROOPS AT PRESIDIO TO BE DISCHARGED

The 54th Ammunition Train Division, represented by 93 overseas veterans; the Headquarters Division, and the 33d Artillery Brigade, represented by 17 men, arrived at Oakland mole last night at 7:40 p. m. in charge of Lieutenant J. P. Dunworth of San Francisco. The party of 114 soldiers went into service largely from Alameda county cities, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. They were brought from Fort Monroe, Virginia. Red Cross canteen workers received them at the pier and entertained them with coffee, doughnuts, cake, ice cream and smokes.

"We were moving up when the armistice was signed," commented George J. Dwyer of the city, who was one in the party. "We were in Havre in August when the Germans killed seven townsmen in an air raid as the shells from the anti-aircraft guns were bursting in defense of the city, we rooted hard for them to hit."

George W. Turner was another Oaklander who returned last night. After a few days at the Presidio the men expect to receive their discharges.

Peace Pipe Smoke Pledges Indians to League of Nations

SAN GABRIEL, Cal., March 8.—Indians gathered at the old San Gabriel mission last night smoked the ceremonial pipe of peace and placed their stamp of approval on the league of nations.

Chief Standing Bear, Sioux, stood before the council fire and pointed the pipe to the sun, then the four winds and the earth. Next he placed a live coal in its bowl and passed the pipe to an Idaho Nez Perce, who took one deep puff and passed it to his neighbor. Thus the pipe was smoked by some fifty Indians.

"We hope peace will come to all the world," said Standing Bear in explaining that the ceremony was in recognition of the work the red men had done in helping win the white man's battles.

The petition was prepared by Attorney Joseph Kirk of San Francisco, and presented to the filing clerk by James Paul Gray, father of the petitioner, William H. ALATHAM MEN CONFERENT OF HIS ELECTION

Savant Wams of 'Foolish Ideals' Inner Self Is Declared Teacher

BERKELEY, March 8.—"Ideals" as propounded by alleged leaders of thought are not always what they seem to be, according to Professor William Ernest Hickok, Harvard philosopher, at present lecturing at the University of California.

In an address yesterday to University of California students assembled in Harmon Gymnasium, Professor Hickok declared that ideals came not from the inner self, but from the outer world, and that the "God of things as they are" is the only true ideal.

"The ideal of the inner self," he declared, "is the ideal of the outer world. It is the ideal of the outer world that is the only true ideal. It is the ideal of the outer world that is the only true ideal. It is the ideal of the outer world that is the only true ideal."

TWO KINDS OF IDEALS.
Ideals, Professor Hickok divided into two classes, those of the inner self and those of the outer world. One of the greatest benefits, he declared, that could come from the proposed league of nations would be the "twice" ideals which should arise from it.

MANAGER'S STATEMENT.
"We feel sure that if the voters realize that the Councilman Latham is the victim of unusual circumstances and shrewd political maneuvers, that he will be returned to the council next Tuesday. The opposition made no move until it was too late for Latham to file a nominating petition. It is for the benefit of the city and the interest of the candidate that the Latham write-in campaign has been undertaken."

BERKELEY, March 8.—Alcatraz Island, guardian of the Golden Gate, will be robbed of his grim prison walls and will have an artistic monument erected in its place, according to a plan suggested to the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce by H. R. Probasco, well known Berkeleyan living at 2435 Virginia street, is carried out.

Probasco says that is beneath the dignity of a great nation to have its western gateway "disfigured" by the presence of a prison, military or otherwise. More than this, he says it is a reflection on the city of San Francisco to be introduced to visitors by haunting a penal institution in their faces.

"Oakland, Berkeley, and Alameda have equal interest in this matter and, in fact, it is a subject of comment for the state and nation at large," says Probasco.

A substitute for the present objectionable buildings Probasco suggests that a statue be erected similar to those to the Goddess of Liberty in New York harbor and for the modeling of which a competition has been conducted between leading artists of the world.

WRITE-IN CROSS NEEDED.
Though the state law provides that it is not necessary to place a cross after a name written in on an election ballot, it will be necessary for the supporters of Councilman Latham to make a cross when they write in his name next Tuesday. The write-in cross is necessary because Alameda uses the preferential system of voting, allowing the voter to mark a cross (X) next to the name of the candidate he wishes to elect. For this reason the cross will have to be used to show that Latham is first choice of those voters who write his name in City Clerk R. B. Rossard, speaking of the write-in procedure, said today:

"The city of Alameda uses the preferential system of voting, and, and, as there is no law covering the point, I am advised by the city attorney that not only must the name of the candidate be written in, but a cross (X) must be stamped with a rubber stamp or with pencil in one of the choice columns. Unless this cross is placed in one of the choice columns, the election officials will be unable to determine which choice has been expressed by the voter. Election officers will be requested to not count any name written in less a cross (X) is placed in one of the choice columns."

A GOOD WAY TO SAVE.
In times like these when economy is so essential, I know of no better way to save than to have the entire family shop with Neolin Soles.

Neolin Soles, Rochester, N. Y. In his letter Mr. Williams tells of a man of Neolin Soles who has won constantly for four months. "The soles still look like new," he says.

You, too, will think there is no better way to save, when once you have tried shoes with these long-wearing, comfortable, and waterproof soles. They come in many styles for every member of the family. And good repair shops carry Neolin Soles for re-soles. They are made scientifically by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels—guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

The government's guaranteed price for the farmers.

"The Farmers' corporation," he said, "using part of its accumulated assets here in the United States, has been buying the public from any market since the public has been in the market."

Notwithstanding the high price that there is only one variety in the market, 1,000 boxes of apples at $13,000 are sold through the wholesale commission houses each

The apple crop all over the country is unusually large last year and so heavy both in the United States and in foreign countries. The government on European apple exports was in an opportune time last fall and hundreds of carloads of apples from California have gone overseas since then. The new sweetening, pippin and other varieties are being shipped to other apple and form the major portion of shipments across the Atlantic.

There has been an unusually movement of apples in the local sale market since the beginning

Within a few more weeks, apple become very scarce and small fruits and berries will make their appearance. With fair weather, strawberries should reach the market this week according to the packers. Berries have been here to some extent this year as a result of the cold weather, but are expected to mature rapidly should a warm spell prevail for a few weeks.

Canners are already looking for a berry situation and some contracts already have been placed. The berry situation in California is said to have been
